Concordia Historic District
 930 N 34th Street

The house at 930 N. 34th Street had a modest but dilapidated 20th century garage at the rear of the property when Arne and Eunice Vedum bought the property in 2007. The owner received approval from the Historic Preservation Commission to demolish the old garage and build a new one to shelter his collection of cars. The design of the new structure came from the Preservation Portfolio and is scaled and detailed to fit into a late nineteenth-early twentieth century neighborhood. Doing a lot of the actual construction work himself, Arne Vedum's new coach house features shingle clad gable ends, dormers and wood trim that accentuate the windows, corners and garage door openings.
