

A dragon has invaded the eastern end of North Avenue and will stay until October 29 on the south facade of the Victorian Gothic North Point Water Tower. The artist wants to take art out of the museum and bring it to the people. Her next project may be in River Place Park at Water and Wisconsin. Photo by Barbara J. Behm

Dragon invasion!

Artist Terese Agnew attached her 30-foot, 350-pound dragon sculpture to the North Point Water Tower October 22. Photo by Barbara J. Behm