Office of Violence Prevention to hold community briefings

President Ashanti Hamilton, President of the Common Council, invites residents to attend community briefings regarding crime prevention. These meetings are a part of the Blueprint for Peace initiative, which is the city's first comprehensive framework for violence prevention. The Office of Violence Prevention is hosting four community briefings beginning TODAY, Tuesday, November 28. This first meeting will be hosted in President Hamilton's district. Each meeting will take place from 5:30 p.m. until 7:30 p.m. in community rooms of various libraries.

Alderman Hamilton says, "The Blueprint for Peace is a strategy and a way of living and doing that has to be embraced by the entire city. These meetings are set up to help community members understand the essence of Blueprint for Peace and the role we all need to play in making our city safer for everyone."
