Purifoy-Smoots was promoted to Deputy Chief of the Milwaukee Fire Department in December, 2020. She is the first African American female firefighter to hold that position in Milwaukee. In 2012, she was named Firefighter of the Year by the Milwaukee Fire Department.

At the age of five, Mone Dorsey moved with her family to Milwaukee from Chicago. In 1999, she and her sister, Sharon Robinson, started the Milwaukee chapter of Girls Inc., a national organization dedicated to empowering girls. Dorsey has served as Girls Inc.'s CEO and executive director since 2012. Under her leadership, Girls Inc. has expanded its programs and initiatives, serving more than 10,000 girls each year.

After earning a degree in business administration from Marquette University, Dorsey worked for the Milwaukee Public Library, where she served as a planner in the Community Services Division. She then went on to serve as chief administrative officer for Neighborhood Health Services, the largest health care provider in Milwaukee County.

Dorsey was appointed in 2021 by county Executive Tom Barrett as the county's chief administrative officer. In this role, she leads the county's administrative services, which include the county executive's office, finance, human resources, procurement, and technology services.

Sharon Robinson was the executive director of Girls Inc. from 1999 to 2012. During her tenure, the organization grew from serving 300 girls to over 10,000 girls each year. Robinson has received numerous awards for her work with Girls Inc., including the 2009 Community Champion Award from the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel, the 2010 Women's Leadership Award from the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel, and the 2011 Woman of the Year Award from the Milwaukee Business Journal.

Robinson is also a member of the Milwaukee host committee for the Obama-Biden 2012 presidential campaign. She has been involved in numerous community organizations, including the Milwaukee Urban League, the Milwaukee Women's Network, and the Milwaukee Branch of the NAACP.

In 2015, Robinson received the Women's Leadership Award from the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel. She has also been honored by the Wisconsin Black Media Association and the Milwaukee Business Journal. Robinson is a native of Milwaukee, where she graduated from Lincoln High School. She earned a degree in business administration from Marquette University.

Mone Dorsey became the first African American female firefighter in Milwaukee in 2020. She is the daughter of Mone Dorsey and the paternal granddaughter of Sharon Robinson, who served as the executive director of Girls Inc. from 1999 to 2012.

Dorsey grew up in Milwaukee with her sister, Sharon Robinson. She attended Marquette University, where she earned a degree in business administration. After graduation, Dorsey worked for the Milwaukee Public Library, where she served as a planner in the Community Services Division.

In 1999, Dorsey and her sister, Sharon Robinson, started the Milwaukee chapter of Girls Inc., a national organization dedicated to empowering girls. Dorsey has served as Girls Inc.'s CEO and executive director since 2012. Under her leadership, Girls Inc. has expanded its programs and initiatives, serving more than 10,000 girls each year.

In 2012, Dorsey was named Firefighter of the Year by the Milwaukee Fire Department. She continued her education by earning a master's degree in public administration from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee.

In 2015, Dorsey received the Women's Leadership Award from the Milwaukee Journal Sentinel. She has also been honored by the Wisconsin Black Media Association and the Milwaukee Business Journal. Dorsey is a native of Milwaukee, where she graduated from Lincoln High School. She earned a degree in business administration from Marquette University.

Mone Dorsey has been described as a trailblazer for African American women in firefighting. She is the first African American female firefighter in Milwaukee, and she is also the first African American female firefighter in Wisconsin to be promoted to the rank of deputy inspector. In 2020, she was appointed as the county's chief administrative officer by county Executive Tom Barrett.
Rogers, Dr. William
Robinson, Sharon
Kane, Eugene
Goins, Melissa
Henningsen, Margaret
Coggs, Spencer

Director of the Milwaukee Metropolitan Sewerage District in 1989. He later served as a president of the National Association of Music Merchants (NAMM) and through his Core DJs organization stages DJ seminars. A Milwaukee native, Davies has run the event DJ business since 1987. He is a board member of the Milwaukee County Bus Association (MCCA).

Bradley Thurman, who was born and raised in the Brewers Hill neighborhood of Milwaukee, graduated from the University of Wisconsin-Milwaukee with a degree in business and went on to become a successful entrepreneur. He founded Legacy Bank in 2020. She is the first female African American to own a bank in Wisconsin. Legacy Bank opened in a former Firstar Bank building where Sims had worked for most of his life.

A Milwaukee native, Fessahaye previously served as an appointed member of Wisconsin's Legislative Black Caucus and as a leader of the state's Democratic Party. Born in Ethiopia, she moved to the United States as a child and attended the University of Wisconsin-Madison, where she earned a degree in political science.

Conyers was a journalist and co-founder of The Milwaukee Times weekly newspaper along with her husband, who is a lawyer and former state senator. She is a member of the NAACP and a committed civil rights activist. Conyers has worked to promote economic development and opportunity to the local community.

Watson was a member of the Milwaukee Commission on Human Rights, formed in 1944. The Lindsay Heights neighborhood was the first to have a neighborhood association in Milwaukee. Watson has focused on low-income and disadvantaged youth and their families. She is a member of the Milwaukee Association for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect (MAPAN). Watson was a member of the Milwaukee NAACP and a member of the NAACP board. She has been involved in civil rights issues in Milwaukee and the surrounding area.

Watson's son, De'Aaron, is a professional basketball player who was drafted by the Golden State Warriors in the first round of the 2015 NBA draft. He played for the Milwaukee Bucks until 2017 when he was traded to the Denver Nuggets. Watson has been involved in the Bucks organization since 2015 as director of player development. Watson is also a board member of the Milwaukee Bucks Foundation.

Watson's daughter, De'Anna, is a member of the Milwaukee County Social Services Board and a former state senator. She is a member of the Milwaukee County Board of Supervisors in 1964. He and Calvin Moody were the first African American to be elected to the Milwaukee City Council.

Watson's granddaughter, Kiara, is a member of the Milwaukee County Board of Supervisors in 1964. He and Calvin Moody were the first African American to be elected to the Milwaukee City Council. Watson has focused on low-income and disadvantaged youth and their families. She is a member of the Milwaukee Association for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect (MAPAN).

Watson's great granddaughter, Cori, is a member of the Milwaukee County Board of Supervisors in 1964. He and Calvin Moody were the first African American to be elected to the Milwaukee City Council. Watson has focused on low-income and disadvantaged youth and their families. She is a member of the Milwaukee Association for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect (MAPAN). Watson's great granddaughter, Cori, is the first African American to be elected to the Milwaukee County Board of Supervisors. She has worked to promote economic development and opportunity to the local community.

Watson's great-great granddaughter, De'Asia, is a member of the Milwaukee County Board of Supervisors in 1964. He and Calvin Moody were the first African American to be elected to the Milwaukee City Council. Watson has focused on low-income and disadvantaged youth and their families. She is a member of the Milwaukee Association for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect (MAPAN). Watson's great-great granddaughter, De'Asia, is the first African American to be elected to the Milwaukee County Board of Supervisors. She has worked to promote economic development and opportunity to the local community.

Watson's great-great-great granddaughter, Kiara, is a member of the Milwaukee County Board of Supervisors in 1964. He and Calvin Moody were the first African American to be elected to the Milwaukee City Council. Watson has focused on low-income and disadvantaged youth and their families. She is a member of the Milwaukee Association for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect (MAPAN). Watson's great-great-great granddaughter, Kiara, is the first African American to be elected to the Milwaukee County Board of Supervisors. She has worked to promote economic development and opportunity to the local community.