Canstruction® sculpture ceremony tomorrow

Mayor Barrett, Alderman Stamper judging sculptures for charity

On Wednesday, December 5, Alderman Russell W. Stamper, II, along with Mayor Tom Barrett, will judge Milwaukee's only Canstruction® event, an international creative competition benefitting charity.

Colossal food-themed structures made entirely of canned food – designed and created by engineers, architects and builders – have been in the City Hall Rotunda since Sunday. The sculptures will be on display until December 7. The 6,000 plus canned goods will then be donated to the Jewish Community Pantry, located in the 15th Aldermanic District.

“Food and fellowship with others is what the holidays are all about so I’m pleased to partner with the Jewish Community Center to provide hunger relief for families,” said Alderman Stamper of the 15th District.

The public exhibition and juried awards ceremony will include remarks from Mayor Barrett, Alderman Stamper and Jewish Community Center CEO Mark Shapiro.

- What: Judging and awards ceremony of Canstruction® structures
