Minority Health Film Festival kicks off four-day run tomorrow

The four-day Minority Health Film Festival kicks off tomorrow (Thursday, September 12) and will showcase unique film selections, community forums, and an interactive health fair, all related to information about the health statuses of racial-ethnic minority populations.

Common Council President Ashanti Hamilton said the film festival is the first of its kind in the nation, and he is strongly encouraging citizens to attend one or more of its offerings.

“From mental health and the diabetes epidemic, to tackling health care disparities and deadly gun violence, the Minority Health Film Festival is bringing events, sessions and screenings that have been inspired by health-related conversations happening across the nation right here to our Milwaukee communities,” President Hamilton said.

“Please look over the festival schedule to find a session or screening that fits your interests,” he said.

The Minority Health Film Festival is presented by Milwaukee Film, the Black Lens Film Series, Cine Sin Fronteras, and Froedtert/The Medical College of Wisconsin and will feature events across Milwaukee from Thursday, September 12 through Sunday, September 15.

The list of primary festival panel discussions include:

Let’s Talk Mental Health: A Conversation with Charlamagne Tha God

Charlamagne Tha God is best known for being co-host of the nationally syndicated hip-hop iHeartRadio program THE BREAKFAST CLUB. He has also been a leading force in the mental health discussion in America. His panel discussion will begin at 12 p.m. Thursday, September 12th at Turner Hall Ballroom (1040 N. Vel R. Phillips Ave.)

Mind & Body: Conversations with STYLES P

Whether a part of acclaimed rap trio The LOX or as a solo artist, Styles’ (aka David Styles) razor-sharp slick talk has created a cult-like following within the hip-hop and “gangsta” rap community. Looking to balance to his fast-paced rapper lifestyle, Styles began supplementing his diet with juicing 10 years ago. Styles P appears as a part of the “The Art of Mental Health” and “Juicing For Life” resource fair panels. “Juicing For Life” will be at 3 p.m. on Saturday, September 14 at Kenilworth Square, 2155 N. Prospect Ave. and “The Art of Mental Health” will be held at 1 p.m. on Sunday, September 15 at The Back Room @ Colectivo, 2211 N. Prospect Ave.

Legacies of Mistrust: A Conversation with Harriet Washington

An award-winning medical writer, medical ethicist, and the author of the best-selling book, Medical Apartheid: The Dark History of Medical Experimentation on Black Americans from Colonial Times to the Present, Harriet Washington deconstructs the politics around medical issues. Harriet Washington appears as a part of the “Legacies of Mistrust” event on Sunday, September 15 at 6 p.m. in the UWM Union Ballroom (2200 E. Kenwood Blvd.). Tickets for the session can be purchased at mkefilm.org/mhff_

Key festival film screenings include:

SAVE ME  (USA / 2019 / 61 MINS.)

What began as a Hmong-American play presented at UW-Milwaukee in 2018 by local Southeastern Milwaukee students has become an essential work of art, exploring issues of mental and emotional health in Milwaukee’s Hmong community. Save Me features a young Hmong girl who loses her mother and falls into depression until she meets a mysterious person who teaches her to find acceptance. The film reveals the challenges of living between the two worlds of Hmong and Western life. Friday, September 13 - 7 p.m. at the Oriental Theatre (2230 N. Farwell Ave.) with Q&A to follow.

THE INTERRUPTERS  (USA / 2011 / 125 MINS.)

Profiling a year in the life of a city grappling with urban violence, The Interrupters follows members of the activist group CeaseFire as they work to curb violence in their Chicago neighborhoods by intervening in street fights and showing youths a better way to resolve conflicts. Saturday, September 14 - 6:30 pm. at the Oriental Theatre (2230 N. Farwell Ave.) with Q&A to follow.

Please go to mkefilm.org/mhff or see the attached flyer for the full schedule of Minority Health Film Festival events, discussions, screenings and forums.
