Testing options still available for north side residents

Beginning on Tuesday, May 26 the free COVID-19 testing site at the Midtown Center operated by the National Guard will be on hiatus. Common Council President Cavalier Johnson wants area residents to know that testing options still exist for those who are seeking a test.

“I want to thank everyone involved that assisted operating the free testing site at Midtown during the past two weeks. The venture proved highly successful,” said President Johnson. “For those who are still experiencing symptoms and want to get tested, options still exist. Advocate Aurora Health has established a testing site at Midtown, and I encourage residents to utilize that option if needed.”

Testing at the Advocate Aurora Health Midtown clinic (5818 W. Capitol Drive) is available to anyone, regardless of ability to pay, experiencing at least one COVID-19 symptom. These can include cough, shortness of breath, and fever among other symptoms. Symptoms will be confirmed when an appointment is scheduled.

An appointment is needed to receive a test. Those interested can schedule an appointment online via the LiveWell app or MyAdvocateAurora website. To make an appointment over the phone you can also call (877) 819-5034 from 7 a.m. – 7 p.m. Monday through Friday or 9 a.m. – 2 p.m. on Saturdays.
