Inaugural Apprenticeship Day comes to City Hall tomorrow

Alderman DiAndre Jackson will be hosting the inaugural Apprenticeship Day at City Hall tomorrow – Thursday, April 3 from 9 a.m. – noon at City Hall, 200 E. Wells St. The event seeks to expose high school aged students to career opportunities in various skilled trades positions. Throughout the day, attendees will get to meet with representatives from various employers and unions, learn more about trades careers, what it takes to land an apprenticeship, and much more. The city’s Department of Public Works will also have equipment on-hand outside of City Hall and discuss opportunities for careers in city employment. Media coverage is invited.

“Jobs in the trades are a fantastic career path for young people as they offer stability, growth potential, competitive pay and a whole host of other benefits. My goal in hosting Apprenticeship Day is to show local students how fulfilling these jobs can be, and connect them with people who will be looking to fill apprenticeships in the near future,” said Alderman Jackson.

Event sponsors include: Visit Milwaukee; Building Advantage; People’s Bank; Milwaukee Tool; The Firm Consulting; Miron; CBTU; WI AFLCIO; Carpenters Union; UAW SE CAP; IUOE 420; LIUNA 113; Milwaukee Labor Council; SMART; SEIU.
