REPORT ON PROBATIONARY SERVICE INSTRUCTIONS FOR SUPERVISORS/MANAGERS

Rule VIII, Section 8 of the Rules of the City Service Commission requires that a person appointed to a position or transferred to a different department or division or reinstated to a different department or division successfully complete a probationary period. The length of the probationary period is generally six months of actual service for positions classified as non-exempt from FLSA or twelve months of actual service for positions classified as exempt from FLSA with the exceptions of those positions designated in the Rule.

A regularly appointed City employee does not gain permanent civil service status and the rights associated with that status until they pass probation. Supervisors are responsible for welcoming and training probationary employees and for assessing their performance during the probationary period. Performance assessments shall be documented on the Probationary Service Report, Form CS-58, on a quarterly basis.

The probationary period starts the date the employee is appointed. During the employee's first week of employment, provide a copy of the job description and probationary report form; discuss the performance factors that he/she will be evaluated on; and provide a timeline of when the formal evaluations will be completed. Formal evaluations should occur periodically throughout the probation period, with a final meeting just prior to the end of the probation. (e.g. formal meetings should be held after three months of the employee's service during a six-month probation period; and at approximately four and eight months of service during a twelve month probation). The purpose of the meetings are (1) to evaluate performance; (2) to provide feedback by developing specific plans to enhance performance levels or to correct deficiencies; and (3) to recommend for/against retention of the employee. Formal evaluations are in addition to the frequent informal feedback necessary for successful management of the probationary period.

Evaluation

The probationary period performance ratings must take into consideration that the employee being rated is new to the job. The performance levels of the new employee during the probationary period must not be compared with those of experienced employees. Instead, the examples of satisfactory performance levels on the front of the form should be benchmarks to evaluate job performance.

Procedure

Study the instructions and behavioral examples for the performance factors. Prepare for the evaluations by obtaining documentation such as informal notes, input from other supervisors, or productivity numbers.

During each formal evaluation, rate the employee in terms of their demonstrated performance. Discuss the performance with the employee and provide feedback and suggestions about performance improvement, where needed. Allow the employee to ask questions and assure that he/she understands the requirements for successful performance.

At the end of each evaluation session the employee must initial the line on the form to indicate that you have discussed the performance and expectations (item numbers 7c-9c). The initialing indicates that the evaluation was reviewed, not that there is implicit agreement with the evaluation.

Other documentation to show a record of on-going discussions with the employee may be attached to the form.

As part of the final evaluation session, you must indicate whether you recommend the employee for retention or if other action is warranted.

Ratings

OUTSTANDING– Performance at this level is superior. Performance always exceeds standard and expectations of the position.

EXCEEDS JOB REQUIREMENTS– Performance consistently exceeds all of the standards and expectations of the position. The employee is performing at a level well beyond what is normally expected.

MEETS JOB REQUIREMENTS – Performance consistently meets the standards and expectations of the position.

BELOW JOB REQUIREMENTS– Performance on the job is inadequate and does not consistently meet the standards and expectations of the position. To reach the standard required of a competent permanent employee by the end of the probationary period, greater effort and/or training will be needed.

UNSATISFACTORY– Performance on the job is unacceptable and demonstrates an inability or unwillingness to meet standards and expectations of the position. Special training, reassignment, or termination may be advisable.

Note: any rating of "BJR" or "U" must be substantiated by a written statement.

Extension of Probationary Period

Under certain circumstances, the City Service Commission may extend a probationary period. To request an extension you must submit the request directly to the Employee Relations Director with a letter that explains your reason(s) for the request and a description of the plan to address those concerns. Also include a copy of an Employee Performance Improvement Plan or other documentation to support your request. Your request must be made at least 30 days prior to the end of the probationary period.

Termination During Probation

Granting permanent status to a poor performer can create a negative workplace environment and be very time consuming for the manager. If an employee is not successful on the job, you do not have to wait until the end of their probation period to terminate their employment; you do have to show that you have provided the employee with the information, training and support they need to be successful. Termination may occur at any time during the employee's probationary period. A copy of the Termination Notice, form CS-80 with a full statement of the reasons for termination must be filed with DER within three days of the termination.

Processing

After the final evaluation session, distribute the completed and signed form as indicated at the top of the form.
