Reward Money To Be Announced For Info On Sex Assault Suspects; Additional Details To Be Offered Re: Group Assault Of 11-Year-Old Girl

News Conference at 10 a.m. This Morning

Ald. Mike McGee, Jr. will host a news conference this morning at 10 a.m. to announce reward money being offered for information on suspects still at large in the heinous sexual assault earlier this week of an 11-year-old Milwaukee girl. Police say as many as 19 people reportedly participated in the assault, which took place in a home located in the 6th Aldermanic District.

Ald. McGee said he has spoken directly with the girl and her family and has additional information on what transpired. Yesterday, Ald. McGee expressed publicly his outrage at the assault of the girl, describing the suspects' behavior in the unspeakable crime of violence as "animalistic."

"The individuals who participated in this heinous act of violence must be held accountable for their crimes," Ald. McGee said.
